Forecast Issued on Monday 08 Nov 2021 at 16:09 by Met Office Aberdeen

Confidence: Some doubt over rate of clearance of cloud on Tuesday morning, otherwise high through the coming days for bright, breezy conditions with a few showers but lower from Friday with considerable doubt over the track of a low close to Scotland.

Headline for Tuesday 09 Nov 2021: Some good sunny spells with a few wintry showers later. Breezy.

Forecast for Tuesday 09 Nov 2021

Weather: Occasionally heavy rain clearing through the early hours with long clear spells developing across the north. Cloud across the Perthshire hills and Ochils soon breaking to leave some good spells of sunshine through the morning. A little more cloud again from midday with a few mainly light showers through the afternoon and more especially evening, these turning increasingly to snow on the higher summits.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: Near zero across the south at first, otherwise around 75%.

Visibility: Periods of persistent cloud above about 450-600m overnight and in the south at first, becoming occasional above 600-750m. Otherwise visibility, very good or excellent, but several kilometres in overnight rain and any snow showers
