

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

Surfaces will remain cold today, and as cloud breaks, they will fall below zero again tonight. A mix of occasional showers and, on high ground, partly melted snow, will exacerbate problems but on the whole, ice will be less widespread than on some recent nights.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 14:00 on Mon, 19th Dec 2011 until 12:00 on Tue, 20th Dec 2011

Although conditions should improve in most places this afternoon, further snowfall and icy conditions will continue affect some upland roads in the north of the region. As skies clear this evening and tonight, the risk of ice increases once more.

The public should be aware that this could cause locally tricky travel conditions, mostly on untreated surfaces.
