Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a wet start, Scotland and Northern Ireland will brighten up during the morning to sunny spells, with a few showers in the north. Elsewhere it will be a cloudy day with showery outbreaks of rain, which could be heavy and persistent in places, with thunder. Northern England should brighten up later.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

South Wales, the South Midlands and southern England will have further periods of rain on Wednesday. Further north it will be mainly dry with sunny spells. Most parts will be dry with some sunshine on Thursday, although a few showers may crop up in the north.
