++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It'll be a frosty or icy start, but dry throughout the day with sunny spells.
However around the coasts and the south-east of England there may perhaps be the odd shower. Overnight, patchy rain will move into the west, falling as snow on hills and to low levels in Scotland.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Tomorrow, it'll be a bright and frosty start in the south-east but elsewhere it'll be cloudy with patchy rain. Skies will brighten in the north later, but still with the odd shower, which will be wintry in Scotland. Wednesday is likely to be wet and very windy, particularly in the south-west.
