Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
An unsettled and windy day across England and Wales with heavy rain, some hill snow and severe gales in the southwest. The rain will ease and become more fragmented into the afternoon, with brighter skies developing in the west. Northern Ireland and western Scotland will see a largely fine day with sunny spells. However, showery rain will affect eastern Scotland.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Largely fine on Thursday with sunny spells. However, patchy rain will affect southeast England for a time, and showery rain will spread into Northern Ireland later. Rain will affect northwestern parts on Friday, whilst southeastern areas remain drier and brighter.
