

A polar projection map of the Arctic region. The map is centered on the North Pole, with concentric circles representing lines of latitude and radial lines representing lines of longitude. The landmasses of the Arctic region, including North America, Europe, and Asia, are outlined in black. The map is overlaid with a grid of latitude and longitude lines, with numerical labels indicating the degrees. The map is oriented with the North Pole at the center.