

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Friday 07 Aug 2009

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Rain in eastern counties of England gradually eases during the morning, although occasional showers may continue in the southeast. Elsewhere, early mist and fog patches will clear and it will be a largely dry day with plenty of sunshine and only isolated showers, these most likely in Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

A dry and sunny start for many places on Saturday but it becomes cloudier during the day with a few scattered showers in the west. Further showers are expected in the west on Sunday, these spreading east and becoming more persistent at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2009. Published by the Met Office.